

United Nations Internet Sites

United Nations <http://www.un.org/>

UN overview, links to UN agencies, employment opportunities, information on UN Conferences, publications catalog and press releases.

United Nations Development Program <http://www.undp.org/> <gopher://gopher.undp.org/>

The Web site contains information on UNDP, its office, conference and programs, a calendar of events, speeches, press releases, and full text of the Human Development Report. The Gopher site contains information on the UN and UNDP, links to other UN Gophers, press releases, conferences, and UNDP documents.

POPIN <http://www.un.org/popin/> email: popin@un.org

The United Nations Population Information Network (POPIN), was established by Economic and Social Council resolution as a decentralized network for the co-ordination of regional, national and non-governmental population information activities. POPIN strives to improve the flow of population information world-wide, and to encourage, initiate and facilitate exchange of population information and experience among population and information experts. There are regional POPIN networks in Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America and the Caribbean. Resources include information on conferences, links to Regional POPIN networks, population and family planning Internet sites, publications, databases, directories and newsletters.