

Mail: How You've Felt This Past Week

Sibling Mail: How You've Felt This Past Week Module

OVERVIEW

This module asks respondents an array of items relating to how they have felt or behaved in the past week. Items focus specifically on the dimensions of hostility, anger, and anxiety.

BRIEF VARIABLE DESCRIPTIONS

Ranges reference data set/codebook order, not necessarily alphabetical.

DU003RER-DU022RER:	Depression Specific Items
DU001REC,DU002RER:	Depression Summary (Modified CES-D)
DU023RER-DU048RER:	Specific Items (Hostility, Anxiety, and Anger)
DU026REC,DU027RE:	Hostility Summary
DUA33REC,DUB033RE:	Anxiety Summary (Speilberger Anxiety Index)
DUC34REC,DUB034RE:	Anger Summary (Speilberger Anger Index) * DUA34REC was calculated based on incorrect component items, and has been replaced by the corrected version, DUC34REC.

NOTE: See Cor813 in Appendix A for variable creation details

29 - 126		228	345	573

Note: Items q1fw_:d,g,n,p were reverse coded before constructing the summary score.
. The questions used to calculate DU001REC are the same as those used for the standard CES-D. The scoring method differs. DU001REC is a sum of days R experienced the event. The standard method collapses days into < 1, 1-2, 3-4 and 5-7 and codes those 0 - 3 respectively; then sums those codes resulting in a scores from 0-60. See DU002RE for number of questions answered. Some respondents answered the first few questions yet did not complete subsequent items. If these respondents answered at least ten questions, then a sum was computed. Other respondents answered questions scattered throughout this section of the questionnaire and left the remainder of the questions blank. It was assumed that these respondents only answered the questions that applied to them. If at least three items of the questions that comprise this scale were answered and all items answered received a nonzero response, then a sum was computed for IU001REC using zero as the score for unanswered questions; these unanswered items were counted as answered items in DU002RE.

DUC34REC is a replacement for DUA34REC, a previous version of the summary score for Spielberger Anger Index. DU047RER from the Spielberger Anxiety Index, instead of the DU048RER from the Anger Index, is included in the calculation of DUA34REC. Because of the use of incorrect component items, DUA34REC has been archived and should not be used as the summary score for Spielberger Anger Index.
