nv001re-nv024re	Types of help and support given (not paid for) and to whom it was given by the respondent during the past month. Includes support given to friends, neighbors, co-workers, children >=19, parents, siblings, or other.
nv025re-nv048re	Types of help and support received (not paid for) and from whom it was received by the respondent during the past month. Includes support received from friends, neighbors, co-workers, children >=19, parents, siblings, or other.

nv049re-nv066re	Type of help and persons you could ask for help if you needed it. Includes friends, neighbors, co-workers, children >=19, parents, siblings, or other.

NOTE: Variables nv001re - nv024re were coded from question 47. Question 47 is a table with rows a - d. The rows list tasks for which the respondent may have given help. The first column is labeled "no one" and the remainder of the columns list persons to whom help may have been given. Variables nv025re - nv052re were coded from question 48. Question 48 is a table with rows a - d. The rows list tasks for which the respondent may have received help. The first column is labeled "no one" and the remainder of the columns list persons from whom the respondent may have received help.

Variables nv055re - nv072re were coded from question 49. Question 49 is a table with rows a - c. The rows list the kind of help the respondent could ask for. The first column is "no one" and the remainder of the columns list persons whom the respondent could ask for this help. If the respondent did not check any boxes in an entire question, all associated variables are coded 9. If the respondent checked at least one box in a question, it was assumed that only boxes that applied to the respondent were checked.
