

Forward? The Wisconsin Idea, Past and Present

Special topics course and public lecture series

Sociology 496, Fall 2017. Lec-002 (61884), 3 credits; Lec-022 (66766), 1 credit, lecture only www.wiscidea.com Info: contact eric.sandgren@wisc.edu

Lectures Tuesdays, 7-8:15 pm, 1111 Biotechnology (unless otherwise indicated)
Discussions Thursdays 2:30-3:45, 6102 Sewell Social Science Building
Lecture videos and associated readings will be posted on the website.

Join us for a season of lectures and discussions that bring to life this thing called "The Wisconsin Idea", a trailblazing experiment of engagement among University, government, and each citizen to improve the lives of us all.

- Sep. 5 No lecture (Classes not in session)
Sep. 12 Gwen Drury, "The Wisconsin Idea: how do we define the concept that defines us?"
Sep. 19 Kevin Walters, "Think Local, Act Global: The Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation and the Soil of the Wisconsin Idea."

New location: Town Center, Wisconsin Institutes for Discovery, 330 N. Orchard Street

- Sep. 26 Pam Herd, "The Wisconsin Longitudinal Study: What Tracking the Lives of the Wisconsin High School Class of 1957 has Taught us about Leading Happy and Healthy Lives."
Oct. 3 Caitlyn Cieslik-Miskimen, "Journalism and the Wisconsin Idea"
Oct. 10 Maryo Gard-Ewell, "No Mute Inglorious Milton: The Arts & the Wisconsin Idea."
Oct. 17 Adam Nelson, "Land-Grant Universities and the Wisconsin Idea, 1862-1912."
Oct. 24 Emily Auerbach, "The Power to Change Lives: The UW Odyssey Project."
Oct. 31 Bill Casper, "Sturgeon for Tomorrow: Citizen-Initiated UW Partnerships"
Nov. 7 Nigel Cook, "Giving Cows the Spa Treatment: How Do We Balance Animal Welfare with Economic Realities on the Dairy."

New location: Town Center, Wisconsin Institutes for Discovery, 330 N. Orchard Street

- Nov. 14 Meg Gaines, "The Center for Patient Partnerships"
Nov. 21 Myra Marx Ferree, "Wisconsin Women's Studies: A History of Progressive Innovation."
Nov. 28 Paul Williams, "Agriculture and the Wisconsin Idea."

New location: Town Center, Wisconsin Institutes for Discovery, 330 N. Orchard Street

- Dec. 5 Paula Niedenthal, "The Path from Basic to Applied Research, or: What the Hell Are You Doing with My Tax Dollars?"
Dec. 12 Garry Golden: "Back to the Future?"