The questions used to calculate MU001REC are the same as those used for the standard CES-D. The scoring method differs. MU001REC is a sum of days R experienced the event. The standard method collapses days into < 1, 1-2, 3-4 and 5-7 and codes those 0 - 3 respectively; then sums those codes resulting in a scores from 0-60.

See MU002RE for number of questions answered.

Some respondents answered the first few questions and then stopped. If these respondents answered at least 10 questions, then a sum is computed. Other respondents answered questions scattered throughout page 8 and left the remainder of the questions blank. It was assumed that these respondents only answered the questions that applied to them. If at least 3 items throughout the page were answered and all items answered received a nonzero response; a sum was computed for MU001REC using 0 as the score for unanswered questions. These cases have a code of "20" for MU002RE. The level of psychological distress /depression can range from 0 (the lowest possible) to 140 (the highest possible).

Additional CESDi items can be found in the 1992-93 Wisconsin Longitudinal Study phone instrument. See items RU002RE-RU020RE.

There was an error in this variable in versions of the data prior to March 26, 1997. See Change Notice #7 for a detailed description of the error.

Questions: 18 18d 18g 18n and 18p were reverse coded prior to summing.
